solutions can be made by slowly heating and mixing solutions to add more solute than would be expected. Supersaturated solutions may look like the solvent but may immediately recrystallize if 1) removed from the heat source, 2) left to sit without stirring, or 3) adding even the smallest amount (1 crystal) of solute.

A solution is a type of homogeneous mixture. Dissolving. A solution is made when one substance called the solute "dissolves" into another substance called the solvent. Dissolving is when the solute breaks up from a larger crystal of molecules into much smaller groups or individual molecules.

~~Chemistry for Kids: Solutions and Dissolving~~

Well, mixtures retain their original properties, and solutions do not. In most cases, a solution has different properties than the two or more parts that went into making it. Also, solutions are the combination of a solute and a solvent. For example, in salt water, the salt is a solute and water is the solvent.
